

Considering a prenuptial agreement? That's a good thing. Prenups do not deserve the bad rap they get. A prenup is a valuable tool for protecting your assets in case the unthinkable should happen.

Why You Should Consider A Prenup?

You:

Already own a home or other real estate

Own stocks or have a retirement account or 401(k)

Have children from a previous marriage

Have much more money and assets than your soon-to-be-spouse

Will be quitting your job to take care of children

Will be supporting the other spouse or your family while other spouse goes to college or graduate school

Own a business

Want More Information on Prenuptial Agreements?

Checkout the site www.prenupprincess.com on why prenups are important, myths about prenups, and more.

What Can a Prenup Do and Not Do?

Can Do:

Divide Property

Divide Debts

Set Alimony or Spousal Support

Cannot Do:

Decide Child Custody

Decide Child Support

Important Prenup Facts:

Prenups must be fair and it is important for both sides to have their own attorney. It is best to do your prenup far in advance of your wedding date. www.prenupprincess.com paid consultation for more information.

CONTACT ATTORNEY KRISTINA LARRY:

KRISTINA@SASSYLITIGATIONS.COM, 206-497-1725